

New Skills for Librarians

Joan K. Lippincott
Coalition for Networked
Information

Massive digitization projects lead to the need for...

- New forms of access to information
- Guidance on re-use of content

New forms of access to information

- Visualization of information
- Simplified search
- Recommender systems

New forms of access to information

- Librarians partnering with
 - Systems developers
 - Search engine companies
 - ILS companies
 - Open Source initiatives

New forms of access to information

- Librarians re-thinking
 - Catalogs
 - Metadata

Guidance on re-use of content

- Intellectual property
- Visual literacy
- Integration into the curriculum
- New forms of scholarly communication

Guidance on re-use of content

- Skills

- Ability to advise on intellectual property
- Expertise with design
- Understanding of visual literacy
- Awareness of pedagogical strategies and methods

Guidance on re-use of content

- Skills

- Expertise on new media software
- Expertise on format standards
- Ability to advise on long term preservation issues

Guidance on re-use of content

- New library spaces

- Space configured for group productions
- Hardware and software for multi-media projects
- Access to print and analog content
- Availability of expertise

Thank you!

www.cni.org
Joan@cni.org

